Dr. James Stronge

Dr. James Stronge is the heritage professor in the Educational Policy, Planning and Leadership area at the College of William and Mary in Williamsburg, Va. His research interests include policy and practice related to teacher quality and teacher and administrator evaluation. His work on teacher quality focuses on how to identify effective teachers and how to enhance teacher effectiveness. Additionally, Dr. Stronge has worked extensively with local school districts on issues related to teacher quality, teacher selection and teacher and administrator evaluation.

Justin Baeder

Justin Baeder is an independent consultant supporting school administrators in becoming high-performance instructional leaders. His professional and research interests focus on principal performance and productivity, and are guided by the belief that one of the most effective ways to improve student learning is by empowering principals to become more productive in accomplishing their core work. Mr. Baeder writes about principal performance and productivity at eduleadership.org, and speaks regularly at conferences and professional development sessions for school leaders.

Dr. Mike Schmoker

Dr. Mike Schmoker is a former school administrator, English teacher and football coach. He has written five books and dozens of articles for educational journals and newspapers, TIME magazine and was a regular columnist for Phi Delta Kappan. His most recent book is the best-selling FOCUS: Elevating the Essentials to Radically Improve Student Learning. He is a featured author in ASCD's Master Class series. Dr. Schmoker is the 2014 recipient of the Distinguished Service Award by the National Association of Secondary School Principals for his publications and presentations.
